

David Matheson

David Matheson is Executive Vice President, Europe and Asia-Pacific of Oxford Properties, a leading global real estate investor, asset manager and business builder. In this role, David is responsible for all aspects of Oxford business across Asia-Pacific.

David is a member of Oxford's Executive Leadership Team, Executive Committee and Investment Committee. He initially joined Oxford in 2013 to lead the European investment team, a remit that later grew to include Asia-Pacific. Under his investment leadership, Oxford grew the London platform, entered Paris, Berlin, Singapore and Sydney, and diversified into new sectors in Europe and Asia-Pacific including luxury high street retail, built-to-rent residential and logistics.

Prior to joining Oxford, David spent over 12 years in European investment banking, most recently as an Executive Director at a leading global firm.

David has a Bachelor of Arts in Modern Languages (Honours) from Oxford University, and currently splits his time between London and Singapore.